What can GILG members do to reduce community concerns about the health impacts of industry air emissions?

by Kurt Heidecker 10:00am, 30 April 2009

Is this issue important to you? YES Votes: 2

Queensland Health and GILG community surveys have shown that about 75% of the Gladstone Community are concerned about the potential impacts of industry on their health. Are you concerned and, if so, what triggers this concern and what can Industry do to reduce this concern?

Please Login Or Sign Up To Have Your Say.

Concerns can be triggered by a range of factors from personal experience to feeling ill at ease with the explanations about emissions and health. It would be good to understand your perspective, or your understanding of others perspectives on this.
